Chapter 4 by Catherine Grace (doctor who addict)

I refuse to let him continue to haunt me. No. No more.

I picked up my father's gun and walked to his house. No more. Enough of this. No.

I entered the unlocked house and pointed the gun at him. No. No more of his lies, his threats.

No.

I pulled the trigger.

No.

Chapter 5 by Nate

I had finally done it.
It had to be done, hadn't it?
My torturer is now dead.
Finally, dead.
I knew what would come of this.
The Jail, the slammer, the big house.
I had disrespected what I thought had been the most important commandment, "Thou shall not kill"
I have killed many people.
Emotionally, and this one time in physical form.
I tried to hide the body, bury it.
I still don't know if it worked or not, two years later.
Not in the slammer.
I will find out when I die.

Chapter 6 by Nate

That was a very long time ago. So very long ago.

Now I have a new life, with its many secrets.

I am a cop, I know it is an ironic twist. If its is a twist at all.

I mean I guess it is. A gal that killed her father and ran away and now is a cop.
Seems Ironic if you ask me. I have a pretty good life here in New York. Then again I had a good life in New Jersey. Aside from the pain.

It's O.K. here in the cop car with my partner. Jim who is getting doughnuts from QuickTrip. I know, I know. How Generic a cop with doughnuts. That is just how boring life is.
